Mattapoisett Town News

COASTAL ZONE & HARBOR PLANS

Selectmen conferred with the Coastal Zone Management representatives and the Harbor Study Group to exchange information on current business and to plan direction for both the harbor and coastal groups.

Ralph Eustis, representing the town in the SRPEDD Coastal Zone Management Committee, said that this state study seems primarily interested in recreational development. He said his impression is that the state considers the Buzzards Bay shore as prime recreation area. Eustis said that the state wants to know what they can develop. He said that the Buzzards Bay group is determined to retain local control of this coast to develop first with residents in mind. He suggested that, since his coast zone interest and the Harbor Study Group are so parallel in interest, they could work closely in looking at the coast for worthwhile projects and development to enhance the town's most valuable resource. He said that the federal law asks states to define the coastal zone which can vary considerably to include rivers and lowlands which empty into and lie next to the coast. Mrs. Priscilla Hathaway showed Selectmen a book containing a comprehensive report on the Massachusetts coast. She said that it was the best she had seen and urged the Selectmen to obtain other copies from SRPEDD for town use. Mrs. Hathaway said that she felt that motivation for the coastal zone study was partly inspired because the federal government now realizes that the subsidy of Flood Plan ininsurance was a costly mistake. It removed the risk of development in high risk areas where building might not otherwise have occurred, but is now taking place. She said the coastal zone study is interested in camps, fishing area, marinas, boatyards, beaches and harbors.

David Furtney said that the harbor study committee was inspired and formed at the time of the proposal of the rubber tire breakwater. The committee held a hearing on this type of breakwater to explain what is now known about installations. Furtney said that, to date, the townspeople have not shown great interest in the breakwater and the committee has not been active since the public hearing. Selectmen chairman R. William Blasdale said that the Board of Selectmen foresee a need to manage the mooring area in the harbor in order to fully utilize its potential to accommodate the growing number of boats. He suggested that the committee could be very helpful in looking into this project and others such as launching ramps, shellfishing areas as well as working with the coastal zone representatives. Furtney said that public interest providing insight as to the residents' desires would be of great value and he wished that an issue that would stir such active interest would surface.

Blasdale said that a manageable goal would be a good start and the Selectmen would like to see the harbor study begun as it is so important to the town. He asked the study committee to return with ideas on harbor use.

SEWER PROGRESS

Selectmen met with Ron Michalski and Phillip Sheridan of Tighe & Bond to discuss a development in the sewer connector agreement with Fairhaven. Fairhaven was reported ready to proceed on the sewer project and urging early January consideration by Mattapoisett town meeting. Chairman Blasdale said that while there is no big hangup in the agreement, the Board of Selectmen has a very definite commitment to the voters of the town. He said that the promise was to present the town with a complete plan including the whole financial picture and impact. He said that until the costs are known the Selectmen are not prepared to go to the town meeting. Attorney Donald Fleming, Town Counsel, suggested a meeting with Fairhaven authorities to explain the situation. He said that there is little question that Mattapoisett people will do what is in the best interest of the town if presented with full information.

The engineers suggested that an area of extension of the sewer line covering another 45 homes would eliminate drainage flowing to the town beach and could be accomplished at minor cost ($45,000.). The Board said that this would be a very worthwhile addition to the project and approved the addition to the plan.

In 1800 the average life expectancy at birth in this country was only 35 years of age! By 1865, it had increased to 40; by 1919 it was 50, and today, it is over 70. This is due to the vast change in the way we live: great advances in medical science, better diet, better sanitation, and more healthful clothing and houses.

COLONIAL DECORATIONS IN MATTAPOISETT THIS YEAR? What is going to happen in Mattapoisett this Christmas? That is the big question everyone is asking. Will Mattapoisett citizenry decorate their doorways in the Colonial manner again this year and use white candles in their windows?

natural greens and materials. The creativity and ingenuity that evolved was far beyond everyone's dreams.

I am hopeful that all Mattapoisett residents will continue to decorate in the Colonial manner and that this will become the tradition of this lovely New England seaport village. You certainly have the know how!

We felt that it would be just too much to organize all the happenings we had for our Bicentennial Celebration. That was a very special celebration in which everyone gave much time and effort. Those memories will live on forever.

Let us retain those wonderful memories by continuing to decorate Mattapoisett in this very special way.

ORR VOLLEYBALL TEAM PLACES FOURTH IN STATE TOURNAMENT

The ORR volleyball team placed fourth in their division in the state tournament. The division playoffs consisted of fourteen teams and after the first round ORR was in second place. They wound up in the number four spot however, after the second round. The team needed to place third to qualify for further competition.

Coach Rodrigues was very pleased with the results of the season considering it was the team's second year playing together. The coach also feels that the future for the team looks very promising, basing his deduction on the success of this year's JV team.

When the all-star team was chosen ORR had three of the starting six positions go to Betty Harkins, Kate Bauer, and Melissa Lorenz. Paula Wood and Alison Anselmo were chosen to play on the second string team.

a past. The New Bedford that Wilson and friends recalled so fondly was a close knit community. It was peopled by youngsters from the Fifth Street Grammar School who graduated from the old high school. They graduated and then worked in the city where everyone was known to everyone else. Your mother and father, grandmother and grandfather were part of this environment and bond. They recalled the tar aroma of a waterfront not quite out of the sailing era, the men and trained horses of Number 4 Engine House, stately electric automobiles plying Hawthorn Street, Colonel Green at Round Hill, Clara Bow filming "Down to the Sea in Ships" at the New Bedford wharf and the last trip of the "Wanderer". life from the sailing ship to the moon ship. Earle Wilson and compatriots experienced the most exciting life span of modern history and did it with decency, kindness and strength of character.

Earle Wilson kept Memorial Day on the sacred day by himself when necessary. He was out of step with the country but true to the loved ghosts we honor.

He preached for years at Mattapoisett's Friends Meeting House and the congregation warmed their faith from a genial source. When he recited "In Flanders Field" at the Flag Day Time Capsule Ceremony last spring the heroes of a dim battlefield had a vital representative standing amid the children and looking fondly back at the selfless sacrifice and honor of youth.

I hope the boys and girls of Center School will remember the big, hearty man in the dark blue uniform because he was companion of their great grandfathers. They were children together, grew up together, were brave in hard times and fine and loving people proud of their heritage.

Earle Wilson recorded their news and, lately, captured the nostalgia of their early days in print. He contributed always even to his final day. He and his compatriots knew their time was something special. They are right. They were special also.

Air National Guard

LEARN A CAREER SKILL IN THE AIR GUARD

Do you find every day a drag with the same old humdrum routine? If you are a man or woman between the ages of 17 and 35 and would like to see new faces, and visit new places and would like the challenge of learning an aerospace age skill, then you should consider serving as a member of the Air National Guard, according to Sergeant Don Martel, the local Air Guard Recruiter.

Air Guardsmen are modern day minutemen, serving in the tradition of the minutemen of colonial times and able to provide the United States Air Force with the added muscle needed during periods of national emergency.

Sergeant Martel stated that the Air Guard needs men and women who would like to be trained as auto mechanics, electronics technicians, weather observers and in a wide variety of other skills. Skills that they can use anytime, not just in the Air Guard. He went on to say that "the pay is excellent, the benefits many, but best of all when you are a member of the Air Guard you help safeguard all the good things that make America great. Members serve their community, their state and their nation."

Those who are interested may get complete information, without obligation, by phoning Sergeant Martel at the Air National Guard Recruiting Office, at Otis Air Force Base. His phone number is 563-2150.

Safety Sense

Skin experts suggest four ways to protect your skin from undue damage by winter sun and wind

DON'T spend hours in the sun without protection for vulnerable nose, cheeks, chin and ears. You can burn as badly in cold as in warm weather.

DO apply a sunscreen to exposed areas before you go out, but remember that most wash off when you perspire. Use new water-resistant Sundown sun-screen which stays on for hours, lets you tan without burning.

DON'T be a sun worshipper if you're fair skinned, even with protection.

DO believe your doctor: overexposure to sun without protection does cause skin aging and may cause skin cancer.
